

The FCC should not over rule the decision of thousands of people that do not want to be bothered morning, noon, and night with telemarketers wanting to sell something. I really enjoy knowing that I do not have to worry about answering between 10 and 20 calls per week from a telemarketer. This gives me more time with my family and time to do homework for my degree.